

Art in the Park: A Day of Painting with Children

An enchanting and colorful children's book with original art by author-illustrator Rama Malone that tells of adventures of discovery as children explore painting outdoors in the park with Rama at the Farmers Market. Children play with concepts, using imagination to create their own original art. They learn how images transform to become other than they originally envisioned, and in doing so learn self-reliance and confidence through the creative process. This book is a delightful introduction to painting for children of all ages.
